For a while I have been looking for a good clarifying shampoo I approached a company that I know on twitter called Metique and they very kindly sent me a sample of their shampoo to try (along with a few other samples). A little on Metique...

METIQUE® was produced and launched in Australia in 2001 by Steen Jorsal of Novasel Australia. Steen's passion for Research and Development in Tea Tree Oil enabled him to create these Natural products that are paraben free and scientifically formulated with Natural Vitamin E, for your Hygiene and Wellbeing. Metique products have been proven effective in laboratory and Clinical testing, as well as in professional Beauty Therapist trials - achieving remarkable results in skin care.'

I was quite interested in trying out their products as my nan swears by tea tree and uses it for pretty much all skin related ailments. On the Metique website they have a whole history on tea tree and its amazing properties: <http://teatreeoilproducts.co.uk> It arrived in extremely pretty packaging, I love tissue paper wrapping!

The shampoo obviously has tea tree in it this does mean that it does smell like tea tree, which can be a little 'medicinal' but it's not over whelming and it didn't stay in the hair after washing. My hair seemed to like it – feeling lighter / less weighed down, shiny and in general good condition. Unfortunately my scalp did not get on with it, becoming very sensitive and sore and I even started getting a small rash – I'm not exactly sure what in the shampoo would have caused this as I've used tea tree before and nothing else in the ingredients look particularly scary but this was the only new product that I was using at the time so it was the only thing that I could attribute the reaction to. I contacted Metique and they were extremely understanding, I was in fact quite taken aback at how helpful and nice they were. They had sent me other samples so I decided to test some out to see if I reacted to them as well, happily I did not and found that I particularly like the hand and body lotion sachets and they very kindly sent me another larger sample of the lotion.

Note: My work mate very bravely decided to try the shampoo herself and did not have a reaction to it and is happily still using it now (she gives it a 3 out of 5 stars and stated that it's a good shampoo but in her words it lacked a certain pizzazz)

The body lotion again has a tea tree smell to it so I wouldn't put it on before a first date etc but again its not overpowering and I find it also smells quite caramely.

It has a nice consistency easy to rub in but not too thin. My skin just seems to drink it up and it leaves it feeling soft and hydrated. I've especially noticed how nice it makes my skin feel since getting back from holiday because of the sun and the salt from the sea my skin has become quite dry and my hands particularly have been feeling quite scaly.

I have been taking the lotion to work and using it regularly on my hands and forearms and have noticed a real difference in the condition of my skin in only a few days – luckily my co workers don't mind the smell of the tea tree :)

You can find Metique here on their website the body lotion retails for £10.71 and the shampoo for £8.16

Although I found a lovely body lotion I am still searching for a nice clarifying shampoo if you have any suggestions please share!
